Father's Limitations.
"Mother," asked the small boy, "do you believe everything that dad tells you?" "That depends," replied the lady of the house. "Your father is fairly accurate concerning matters of business, politics and religion, but when he touches on fishing, poker hands and why he did not get home to dinner, he leaves a good deal to be desired."

EWING TAKES PLACE AS LOCAL MINISTER

NEW CONGREGATIONAL PASTOR
DELIVERS ABLE DISCOURSE
SUNDAY MORNING.

APPLYING OLD TRUTHS

Teachings of Apostolic Era Can Be Adapted to Modern Conditions.
—Christ Head of Church.

"Christ" is at the head of the church," was the text taken by the Rev. Charles E. Ewing in opening his pastorate at the First Congregational church Sunday morning before a large congregation which was held in close attention by the message of the new minister. Rev. Ewing is a most able speaker, sincere and scholarly, expanding his text with the purpose of applying it to modern conditions. He said in part:

"In the passages you will find Apostle Paul declaring that women should be subject of their husbands, who in turn should devote their entire love to their wives. Many people place detracting arguments on the remarks made by disciples in the first century and applying them without change to the customs of the social world of the twentieth century. The inclinations of the former period to their own heads to change the teaching of the present age. But the truth is that we should work out the teachings of the Bible with a version of the present and not of the earlier ages.

"The statement that Christ is at the head of the church is a beautiful statement, alluring to the imagination. It means that we are to have under the leadership of Christ, the one who serves any other head is unloyal to the Christian religion. We have in this country hundreds of sects, where some one man has set himself above his fellow men, making himself supreme of that sect and church with his petty versions of religion. Then we have an hereditary ruler, ecclesiastical laws, customs and rules. This system has persisted for many years by having an authority who controls over the organized church. Then we have men and women who are elected to church offices over the congregation, teaching and believing their superiority over others, and impressed with the personal opinion that they are at the head of the church. We are to be guided, but we cannot be subjects.

"We are all servants of the Lord, pastors, church officers and congregations, subject to Christ alone. As the Lord directs we shall be ruled. In the Protestant churches differences have caused a split and the dividing into the separate churches. Still there is a unity that holds them together and that unity is Christ, at the head of the church. With all the discords and beliefs and even petty jealousies, in some instances, they are united in the fact that they are all subject to Christ. The differences are only temporary. The denominations will pass but Christ as the head of the church will stand.

"The many differences in the Protestant churches is beneficial. Many believe that the churches should be organized, and they are either under or over-organized. One man believes in an international union, which is provided in some denominations. Another favors more use of the sacraments and the ecclesiastical rules of the early churches. But they are all serving the Lord, with different methods of inducing Christ's truth.

"This lack of unity will be harmonized when all realize that all are one in Christ. We should be united in other churches and in making differences subordinate to unity and to the truth that Christ loves the church as his own body. To life and death of Christ was not for you and you alone, but for all of us. He lifted a little body of disciples who were the foundation of the present church. We must study the efforts to cleaning the church and its individuals, to make them suitable to be associated with the Lord. The church has its standard set. It is our work to search for them and then put them into use. We are not to be disturbed by new and radical interpretations by revivalists, for we must obey and follow the established standard. The things of Christ's time are being done over again these days of the 20th century.

Keep clean and work up the ethical standards of Christ and always remember he is the one and only head to the Christian church, of whom we all are subjects."

Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferments and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not gripe or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 425 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

HARRISON DRUG LAW GOES INTO EFFECT TODAY IN NATION

Uncle Sam's New Cure for "Dope Fiends" Provide for Imprisonment and Fine to Break-era.

Uncle Sam's new cure for "dope fiends," the Harrison Drug Law, became effective at midnight last night. The legislative prescription provides imprisonment or a fine, or both, for any person who sells or gives away habit-forming drugs without the instructions of a physician.

Every physician, surgeon, dentist, druggist or veterinarian who dispenses, imports or produces opium, coca leaves, salts, the derivative or preparations such as morphine, cocaine, "heroin" come under government supervision.

Believe "Fiends" Registered.
The revenue service staff has been increased to provide for enforcing the law and agents will start out this week to check up all who have failed to register. In the mass of registrations, giving a complete record of all opiates in their possession. There is only one exception—records need not be kept by physicians of preparations containing less than one-fourth of a grain of morphine or one grain of cocaine.

Must Record All Sales.
The rush of registrations coming simultaneously with the filing of income tax schedules and the sale of efficiency tax stamps at the revenue office, has caused such a rush of business that it is doubtful if many of the drug dispensers will receive the required blanks for recording sales on time and they will have to keep the records in some other way.

This year the registration tax amounts to only 24 cents, although the annual fee provided by the law is $1. The present provision, however, extends only to July 1 after which those who register will be required to pay $1 for the succeeding fiscal year.

While not absolutely prohibiting the sale of opiates, and seemingly providing only a tax, the new law in reality makes the risk of illegal sales so great as to constitute a barrier to "dope fiends."

May Cause Many Deaths.
Physicians have estimated that there are approximately 2,000,000 persons addicted to the use of the drugs in the United States. They believe that an enforcement of the law will cause many deaths to those who suddenly find their source of supply shut off. But all agree that in the long run the government will stamp out the drug habit.

One knows the exact number of victims of the drug habit. It extends into all branches of society. A Chicago after revenue agents had found hundreds of small shops and homes, examined that had collected laundry daily, and many of his customers purchased opium of him. The enactment of the law was the result of a conference of nations, at which all agreed to cooperate in stopping the use of opium. China, after many unsuccessful efforts, finally prescribed the death penalty for those who persisted in the use of the drug. The United States law provides fines of not more than $2,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both, for those who violate it.

Chief Champion, after reading the law and interviewing several druggists, declared that it was a good measure to remedy the drug habit in Janesville. Because of the drastic ruling Champion stated that it was up to the druggists to safeguard their stock of narcotics as an epidemic of drug robberies is expected. Orders have been issued to patrolmen to watch for "doctors who have the appearance of being fiends, and to take them into custody. The intention of the department is to "tag" those found and several youths, who are known to be users of cocaine and heroin, will be closely watched.

Most of the Janesville druggists and physicians have made their inventory sheets and will register before March 15th. The physician reported that one woman pleaded for a quantity of morphine before the law went into effect and on his refusal, declared that she would have to go to the hospital, as she realized the effect of the law.

MUCH AID TO FARM IS GIVEN IN STATE

Writer Advocates Joining Aggie
School With Farm Co-Operative
Organizations Help Greatly.

(By H. Oscar Pate.)

Speakers from the great experiment station, rather "experience station," the farm, are being invited to join forces with the Wisconsin College of Agriculture in its teaching. J. Dugan, one of Wisconsin's many successful farmers, in a lecture to students in Farm Management recently stated: "Whether a farm is the winning or losing side depends upon the management of the manager. He fixes the ideal for the farm, and bends everything to getting an income, sacrificing men and integrity to money. Any farm manager must bring results and pay money, but one who does this at the cost of all the pleasures of life is a failure."

"A successful farm day," Mr. Dugan continued, "is one that runs strong and smooth. It is a day that has accomplished something, has added to the income; yet a day that has left spirit in the men and teams, and has given the manager time to relax and enjoy his work."

Every man in Mr. Dugan's employ gets a half day off each week, with no reduction in wages. One man another has Tuesday afternoon and evening and so on. In addition to this, it is always arranged so that some of the men have Sunday off. This method of keeping the men rested and contented is a part of farm management, says Mr. Dugan, and is adaptable to any type of farming in the United States.

Assemblyman W. Woodard, another speaker from the experience station, lately addressed the Live Stock Club of the College of Agriculture. Mr. Woodard told the students of his sheep raising experience in the new lands of upper Wisconsin. His sheep are fed on silage, turnips, and cabbage. Their flocks can be grown cheaply, and that they are well adapted to the sheep's needs is attested by the fact that Mr. Woodard has for four successive years won the grand championship at the South St. Paul Mid-Winter Show, with sheep fed on these accessories.

Wisconsin's farming interests can be well taken care of in the present legislature. Forty-six of the lawmakers are farmers. Of this number three are retired farmers, and five are engaged in some other business besides farming, leaving thirty-eight active farmers.

That farmers do not mortgage their homes for automobiles, as the spiteful sometimes accuse, is made plain in Farm Credit in Wisconsin, a new bulletin published by the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, which states that 93 per cent of the money borrowed on farm mortgages, the bulletin shows, is spent for productive purposes, such as the purchase of land, and live stock, and the erection of buildings.

"Wisconsin has the distinction of a lower rate on loans to farmers than is to be found in any adjoining state." The farmers of this state extend credit to a greater relative extent than do farmers of other states. These statements from the bulletin, show the ability of Wisconsin farmers to get what they need, and to use it wisely. The short time loans are 5 1/2 per cent, and on mortgages, somewhat less.

Two counties, one in the south and one in the northern part of the state, are mentioned in detail. In the southern county, 98 per cent of the money borrowed on mortgages is lent by residents of Wisconsin. In the northern county, farmers furnish 86 per cent of the money borrowed on mortgages. In three years, the farmers have made loans of $400,000 in one corner of the state.

Did you know that in Eau Claire and Marinette counties there are Land Mortgage Associations, organized to lend money to farmers; that there is a Bankers' Mortgage Association dealing in farm mortgages in Grant; that in 1913 a law was passed providing that counties can lend school funds to farmers for the purpose of erecting buildings and clearing land; that under the Ashland Dairy Plan farmers can buy creamery stock on pay for themselves with their own milk; and that farmers who use store credit oftentimes pay as high as 15 per cent interest?

WEATHER FORECAST.
Fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

THE FARE MEASURE.
It is unfortunate that the interstate commerce commission has rescinded its ruling on the increase of passenger rates just previous to the order becoming effective. The railroads have suffered much at the hands of the reformer in the past and the testimony which has been taken before the commission in the Rock Island hearing should convince the members of the final board of arbitration, that the railroads can not long continue to run at a loss. This testimony shows that the financial depression of the great Rock Island system was due to the cut in the rates. What this means in dollars and cents is hard to estimate, but when it can wreck a great corporation it is time to call a halt in such methods of doing business. The trouble is that when the Wisconsin railway commission gave the roads running through Wisconsin a two and a half cent fare several years ago, for passenger service and the legislature passed the two cent bill, the railroads continued to give the residents of Wisconsin the best service possible instead of handing them out a sample of what a two cent fare really called for. If they had done that there would have been a hue and cry from every traveler and the legislature would have been forced to return to the former schedule. This following legislature, in their wisdom, seeking to take a rap at the so-called popular enemy, the railroads, passed a law that all coaches used in Wisconsin should be either of steel or wooden construction. To this the railroads replied by placing all their dilapidated wooden coaches into service in Wisconsin, taking off their newer steel coaches, using them only for interstate traffic. It was a proper move. In view of the ruling of the interstate commerce commission giving the roads a two and a half cent fare the Wisconsin roads had a bill introduced in the legislature asking the legislature to give them the same privilege in Wisconsin. Hardly had this measure been brought to attention when the commission reversed their decision and left the Wisconsin bill stranded high and dry. While it may have been a political blunder at this time, it has such a bill introduced in view of the cry for economy and reduction of expenses, still it was due the railroads and they deserve recognition. Citizens throughout the state feel the same way. The cost of construction, wages, material, in fact everything has arisen in price except the rate, and in order to make the railroads a paying proposition there must be a system of give and take and not have all the taking done on the part of the public at the expense of the railroad.

NEW COMBINATION.
Each campaign where presidential electors are chosen, sees combinations brought into existence which have an important bearing upon the election outcomes. This country has passed through many stages. The last, the break in the republican ranks, the division into progressives and republicans, is still fresh in the memory, and the result, a democratic president, a democratic congress and the consequence in legislation still effects business interests. Leslie's howling points out a new combination of interests that bid fair to play an important part in the next election. "The new pro-German political party, representing from eight to ten million persons of German birth and descent in the United States, must have a decided sentimental influence in the next presidential campaign if it maintains its purpose. Its practical result must await the count of the ballots. The fact that in Passaic, N. J., the German element has already organized to take an active part in local politics, indicates the strength of the movement. "The success with which certain leaders of the labor and prohibition parties have carried on their political propaganda, following the success, in other years, of the Granger, the Populist, Greenback, Know-nothing and Anti-Masonic movements, has, no doubt, stimulated the German element to take decisive action to the belief that only in this way can its influence be made effective. If this movement goes on, and if the war abroad should be prolonged for another year, we shall find both the great political parties bidding for the German vote, and as this will surpass in numbers that of the so-called Labor vote and perhaps equal the Prohibition vote, the political situation promises to become interesting. "For the first time since the war between the states in 1860, we shall feel that our isolation is not complete, but that war among the great powers abroad has a profound interest for us. These powers, who face each other like bulldozers at all times, have thus far been kept too busy to bother us. They have been eager to retain our friendship, though it is suspected that their sub-cellular diplomacy plays no little part in the pugnacious attitude Japan now and then manifests toward the United States, or rather toward the legislation of certain states for which the federal government is not responsible. If the United States and Japan can be kept barking at each other, as England and Germany have been barking at each other for years, Europe will not shed tears for 'misery loves company.' "The advent of a well-organized German party in American politics, with its demand that we stop off supplies from all of the belligerents, Great Britain included, supported as this party would be by an influential German press, would complicate the presidential canvass and put a damper on the aspirations of some of the candidates now in sight. If to the anti-British feeling of the Germans we add the anti-British feeling among the strong Irish element, and if we consider the inroads on both political parties the prohibitionists are making, we shall find something to take the place of the 'progressive' break that destroyed republican prospects in the last presidential campaign. "A year hence the national committee will name the time and place for the holding of the respective presidential conventions, and fifteen months from this time the next presidential campaign will open with all its candidates in the field. It is obvious that the new factor now looms up must cause greater anxiety to the party in power than to the one that seeks to regain control."

While it is a trifle early to discuss plans, still it is safe to predict that some of the largest and best fields of horses face the starters' flag on any middle day that will be found on any middle western track during the season. The Janesville track is known all over the country and horsemen like to go where they receive good treatment and honest dealings.

Roller skating is one of the spring sports that the cement walks have made possible for the youths of today. In this day and age the ball-bearing steel skate is necessary and the old-time roller with wooden wheels that went like the wind on the plank sidewalks is forgotten.

The "bust the trust, smash the tariff, and reduce the cost of living" slogan of the last campaign by the demagogues, have thus far failed to fill the empty dinner pails of thousands of workers who had jobs four years ago.

The Rock river shows evidence of its former power in the spring freshet that pours over the dams and roars away down towards the Mississippi. Once upon a time, river steamers traveled up this stream and tied up at the banks in Janesville. But not now.

Old time baseball fans are sitting up and taking notice now that Janesville is accredited as a possible member of the B-State League. There was a day when Janesville had a baseball team that the big aggregations were afraid of. Why not again?

Too early for spring planting yet. Snow storms are due. Why we have not had an old-fashioned sugar snow yet and we must have that if we expect to have any real, genuine maple sugar to put on the buckwheat cakes next winter.

Did you notice how March arrived? Remember the old adage—'Come in like a lion, go out like a lamb,' and vice versa.

"Mrs. Wiggs of The Cabbage Patch."
The photoplay "Mrs. Wiggs of The Cabbage Patch" is assured of a hearty reception at the Apollo tomorrow, if only on account of the popularity of its name. "Mrs. Wiggs" was very successful in book and stage play form and thus brings a ready made reputation to the screen. And the film will sustain that reputation, for its producers have worked with commendable thoroughness in translating the incidents, the atmosphere, the action. The silent drama is capable of registering all human emotions; years of experience have tested this out; and in "Mrs. Wiggs of The Cabbage Patch" the film play comprehends the gamut of between laughter and tears. It is hard to say whether the pathos or the humor predominates, or whether the one or the other will be more pleasing to the audience. You have two exceptionally sympathetic female characters on sight. "Mrs. Wiggs," played by Blanche Chapman, and "Lovey Mary," which gives the beautiful Beatriz Michellena the chance of presenting herself in a singularly pleasing part that of a staunch though suffering girl. If Mrs. Wiggs is the good angel of the drama, then Lovey Mary is its good fairy, and a very winsome fairy she appears in the picture.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"Peg O' My Heart."
Tonight marks the return of the popular Irish comedy, "Peg O' My Heart" to the Myers Theatre. With its richness of humor, and its charming love scenes, this little play has the whole country talking last season, and broke more theatrical records than any of its successful predecessors. Its reappearance in Janesville, at the Myers Theatre, tonight, will be most welcome, for no play that appeared locally last season met with more favor. It is worthy of mention, that the title role in "Peg O' My Heart" will again be played by the clever Elsa Ryan, who by her good work in this character, has become universally known to theatregoers as the premier Peg of "Pegs."

On this occasion, Miss Ryan will be supported by several members of the original New York company, which in a way, makes the coming of this attraction of more than ordinary interest.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"September Morn."
"September Morn" has found her way to the stage. Nat Phillips has been given an important trial, found guilty in the first degree, sentenced to star in the new musical frivolity for a long term.

"September Morn" is in three acts, with songs, mirth, melody and happiness and joy, presented by Rowland and Clifford's big musical comedy company. There is a big chorus of dancing and singing girls prettily costumed and attractively coached in many dashing ensembles. Arthur Gillespie wrote the book and lyrics; music by Aubrey Staffer and the dances, tangos, etc., were invented by Virgil Bennett, and the well-known director, Frank Tannehill, Jr., staged the production.

"September Morn" had a most profitable run at the LaSalle Opera House, Chicago, last season. September.

"The Typhoon" a Timely Story.
Mr. MacDonough, the author, has drawn a wonderful character in the girl heroine of "The Typhoon," which part is portrayed by Miss Gladys Brockwell.

Her adventures in Paris and Berlin are more than ordinarily interesting at this time and throw a wonderful sidelight into military intrigues of two nations, and in some instances their loose association with the primrose path. "The Typhoon" gives you an insight into the mysterious ways and Oriental cunning employed by the Japanese in gaining from all the nations of the world knowledge of inestimable value to Nippon. It is perhaps the most powerful story of modern Japan ever written. Europe pondered for three years over "The Typhoon"—"Die Cuirass" they called it. This story is bigger than anything ever attempted before of the Japanese.

This photoplay will be presented at the Apollo on Wednesday for a return engagement by popular request.

William Farnum in a Superb Film Adaptation of "The Sign of the Cross."
Wilson Barrett, and a mammoth supporting cast, appear on the screen at the Apollo tonight, in a stupendous film version of the famous dramatic triumph, "The Sign of the Cross" by Wilson Barrett.

The play is foremost, work of the imagination, yet strengthened and emphasized by the grim realities that inspired it. The play brings out the gorgeous pageantry of Paganism into sharp and clear relief against the towering dignity and primitive simplicity of the early Christian faith, and even discloses the riot and license of self-indulgent Rome, as it were, at the very foot of the ascent to Calvary. From its first inception, this daring was justified by an extraordinary success. Before the play had been a week upon the stage, it had created a furore in America. From

DISCOVER CORPSE IN WRIGHT BARN DEBRIS

CHARRED REMAINS OF UNKNOWN MAN FOUND SUNDAY MORNING BENEATH RUINS OF BARN.

FIRE WAS ON JAN. 17TH

Discovery Dispel All Suspicion Against Other Parties of Causing Fire—Hope to Identify Man.

Discovery of a human bone by Charles Wright among the debris on the site of the barn on the Wright farm, Milton avenue, Sunday morning, revealed a half cremated and decomposed corpse of a man, whom the police and county authorities are trying to identify today. Mr. Wright, in company with Bill McLoughlin, 1042 Milton avenue, was walking among the ruins when Wright carelessly knocked loose a small bone from the rubble. The bone was found and when a pile of charred timbers and straw was removed, the head and trunk of a man was uncovered.

The barn was burned to the ground on the morning of January 17th, the fire being discovered about one o'clock a. m. Since that time, six weeks, the body has laid beneath the layers of straw and was served partly by freezing. The legs of the corpse found were burned off at the left arm being off at the wrist and the right member burned above the elbow. The disfigurement of the remains are in a fair state of preservation and the face only partially burned. There is very little hope of identifying the man through his features, however, they are blackened and deformed.

The man was apparently of medium build and had a heavy growth of reddish hair on the back of his head, and wore a mustache. His clothing were of good quality and were purchased only a few days before his death, for the creases are noticeable. He wore a heavy black overcoat, a pair of Janesville overalls, a quality blue serge suit, sweater, vest, shirt and underwear, in the form of a union suit, which was very clean. In his pockets he had a pocket watch, which was stopped at 2:30 o'clock, about the time the barn fell to the ground. On the inside of his coat, giving evidence that he was a Catholic in religion. He had two pairs of mittens, a pair of husking knives, corn-cob pipe, plug and smoking tobacco, and a folding rule. In his overcoat pocket a five-cent piece and a match were found, half filled with matches which were unburned. No money was found. Near the body was a small black metal flask were unburned. The burned remains of a plush cap, of a Belmont make, is indicative to some extent that he purchased his clothes at the Golden Breeze, who wear the brand of headwear. In the tape-hole of his coat there was a round button, but the figures could not be traced out.

The folding rule and husking knives are taken by the authorities as being a certain sign that he was a laboring man and not a vagrant. The marks on the clothes also support this theory. Many people have seen the man, who was seen at the barn, Sunday afternoon and today and several suggested the names of farm hands, who are being looked up by Sheriff Chamberlain and the police today. No case has been reported to the police department during the last few weeks, of missing people, but if the man was a farm hand, his disappearance would make public his failure to return for work.

The theory advanced by those who have investigated, is that the man, while in the barn, was the victim of a fire, for the purpose of spending the night. In opening the door he either lighted a match to see his way, or dropped a lighted cigar among the straw, which was burned by the two horses that were stable near the entrance. His body was found twenty-six feet from the site of the barn, and this was about where he would have been, if he had been in the barn, which would furnish sleeping quarters. It is believed the man was intoxicated for he would have been looking up the barn and he possibly have escaped if sober. The fire started near the front door and rapidly spread toward the rear of the barn and it is probable the man was awakened by the fire.

The remains are being cared for at the Ryan morgue and the authorities are in hopes someone may identify the man before the day is over. The decomposed state of the body will necessitate early burial and services will be held Tuesday or tonight.

This morning Chief of Police Chamberlain and Sheriff Chamberlain took up the case of the man who was found in the barn and secured evidence that it may be Austin Arner of Delavan. Patrick Arner of Bluff street, a brother, viewed the remains yesterday but could not positively state if it was his brother. A sister is expected in this city at five o'clock from Delavan, who will know the clothes worn by Arner when last seen.

Arner's belongings on the farm near Janesville during the summer time and was known to be in Janesville about the week of the fire. He is about the same build of the man found in the barn, and he has the same reddish hair. According to Patrick Arner, his brother, Austin, wore a Catholic crucifix on the inside of his vest on the left side, fastened with a safety pin, similar to the one removed yesterday by Chief Chamberlain. Janesville relatives of Austin Arner were of the impression that he had an upper front tooth missing and this is not true of the man now at the morgue.

Arner is residing in Janesville at irregular intervals during the last five years. His aged father and mother reside in Delavan. On June 30th he was placed under the commitment of Municipal Judge H. L. Marlow for a period of six months. On several occasions he was taken into custody by the police for sleeping out-of-the-way places but was seldom arrested.

Janesville man named Inman declares that he saw Austin Arner only a week ago, and if his statement is true, the authorities' efforts have so far been in vain. Arner, who is a farm laborer, who is being looked for this afternoon. No positive identification can be made until the arrival of the people from Delavan, who are expected at five o'clock.

MICHAEL HAYES IS SUMMONED BY DEATH

SUCCUMBS SUNDAY EVENING FOLLOWING AN ILLNESS OF SEVEN MONTHS' DURATION.

INFLUENTIAL CITIZEN

Contracting Achievements of National Fame Bear Stamp of His Ability—Was Man of Noble Qualities.

Michael Hayes, one of Janesville's best beloved, most influential and popular citizens, died Sunday evening before ten o'clock Sunday evening at his home, 177 South High street, after an illness of seven months' duration. When first stricken several days his death brings a bitter pang of sorrow to those nearest and dearest.

Achieved Notable Success. For forty years Mr. Hayes had been a contractor of Janesville. He began his career as a railroad contractor in 1886 from small beginnings, later he branched out into the general contracting field in which he achieved a notable success.

Through his indomitable perseverance and inherent ability, and at his death he enjoyed a national reputation for his contracting achievements. His life stands as a great monument to his life's efforts.

Mr. Hayes was born on August 29, 1852 at Hudson, New York. He came to Janesville in 1886 when he was a child of two years.

When he was a child of two years, they located near Oregon in Dane county, where he grew to young manhood, surrounded by the beautiful scenery of the Wisconsin northwestern country.

When he was a young man, he came to Rock county, where he purchased a farm on the Madison road, five miles northwest of this city. Four years later he was married to Miss Elizabeth Quinn, on Jan. 15, 1879, and shortly afterward he moved to this city, which has since been his home.

Mr. Hayes began his career as a contractor in 1886 when he took a piece of work on the Evansville cut-off of the Northwestern railroad, which was then being built.

Operations on this line were confined for the most part to that portion of the line which cut through his farm. Success in this first venture led Mr. Hayes to other work.

Mr. Hayes associated himself with his brother, Dennis W. Hayes, with whom he continued in business until 1911, when the Hayes Brothers' contracting firm was organized.

Mr. Hayes' first big work was the building of the Chicago drainage canal, which he began in 1893 and were ten years before their contract was completed.

They constructed a drainage system out of Chicago, where they were met with the most difficult of engineering problems, including the Lake Michigan.

The next important work which the Hayes Brothers took was a railroad contract in the Black Hills of the Dakotas. Then, after several smaller jobs, they secured the contract for the most important work in the city.

EARLY SPRING HERE FINDS BIG FOLLOWING

Everybody Gets Out to Enjoy Fine Weather.—Robin Reported Seen Today.—Golfers on Links.

"In the spring a young man's fancy," etc., will mature to thoughts of love quite early this year if the present weather prevails. Today is the first of March, and March marched in like a lamb. Incidentally the hope is prevalent that it marches out in a similar manner and not like a lion.

The first fine Sunday of the year yesterday brought out a large number in gala attire. Long walks were a feature and many parties took the trip "around the horn" Milwaukee and Main streets witnessed many pedestrians enjoying the fresh air and the warm sunshine.

Automobile owners tuned up their machines for the opening of spring, and riding about town along with short jaunts to the country were the order of the day.

The fine weather induced a number of the Janesville Golf club members to dust off the clubs and ball and add to the course for a couple of rounds of the links. Preparations are already under way by golf club members to hold a tournament this year and some interesting games are promised to members of the organization.

The first official report of a 1915 robin was made to the Gazette office this morning by Fred N. Blakely, 432 Glen Street. Blakely was an early riser this morning, and glancing out of the window saw the little redbreast. He also aroused other members of his family to see the bird.

The spring has just at present is at a high tide the waters of the river have risen rapidly since

ON-BORROWING EYES.

How much we see through other people's eyes. A housekeeper is getting her house ready for a critical guest. She goes about inspecting it to see if it is satisfactory. She looks everywhere for dust, she gives the brasses in the kitchen an extra polish, she pauses to straighten the shades, and all the time she is looking at her home, not through her own eyes, but through the critical eyes of the coming guest.

Buying Clothes to Please Others.

A girl goes out to buy a suit. Instead of looking at the suits out of her own eyes and liking and disliking accordingly, she sees them out of the eyes of that cluster of girls whose standards so largely determine her conduct. She really cannot afford the blue suit. The brown is what she should buy. But she has heard her friends criticize that style as not quite up to the latest mode. She might have bought the less expensive suit if she had seen it only through her own eyes, but she sees it through their eyes, and, of course, buys the blue suit which she cannot afford. It is really astonishing to find what important things people permit themselves to look at through the eyes of others. A letter friend once wrote me that she was really in love with a worthwhile, able young chap in her neighborhood. "I think I would marry him," she wrote. "It was not for one thing. He is a carpenter and my girl friends took down on him. You see we four girls have been together a long while and their opinion means a lot for me. Of course, they don't know him as well as I do. They look at his rough, working clothes and his work hardened hands and his lack of little refinements and of schooling. They don't know what a really fine mind he has, and how courteous and gentlemanly, in the best sense, he is. But I'm afraid if I married him I would feel their disapproval of him and it would make me miserable and unhappy."

In other words she lets herself look at this man through the prejudiced eyes of others instead of through her own eyes. It seems to me she comes pretty near deserving to make the big mistake she is getting ready to make. Of course, if she were able to see things through the eyes of others, for instance, it is good to be able to see the other side of a question under discussion through your opponent's eyes and it is very good to be able to catch occasional glimpses of yourself through the eyes of others.

But don't forget that God gave you your own eyes for your own service and don't be afraid to use them. Be able to trust yourself when all men doubt you," as well as to "make allowance for their doubting too."

Animal Jingles

FOR LITTLE FOLK

CAN YOU GUESS IT?

I've thought of something children that perhaps will be some fun; Suppose we play a little guessing game. I'll tell you something of a little animal I know, And then, when I am through, you guess his name.

The animal I'm thinking of is not so very large, And has a funny little tail that's flat; Its fur is very soft and fine, and used for several things; You may have even worn it for a hat.

Its food consists of berries, of roots and things like that; Its teeth are just as strong as they can be; Perhaps you won't believe it, but it really is a fact, It can gnaw down a great big grown-up tree!

It always has its little home right down beside a stream, Because the thing it really most enjoys Is building dams across a stream, with wood, and stones, and mud; It does it quite as well as any boy.

I'll give you one little hint, its name begins with "B." Now go to work and think with all your might, And then when you have made your guess, just write it down some place. And tomorrow I will tell you if you're right.

Glimpses of Married Life

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

"You see," explained Dick, leaning against the wall in the kitchenette, while Nell was preparing dinner, "if the Germans mine the Irish sea, the English—"

"Please, Dick, go into the other room till dinner is ready. I can't hear a word you say with this meat frying and meat trying and it makes me so nervous to try to listen and cook too. Suddenly, I thought you wanted to know about the situation over there. You have asked me to explain it, and when I begin you can't listen. I don't like moving toward the door. When a woman has her hands on a stove, she is sure to get a great amount of attention to the European situation," said Nell, turning the chops.

"Suit yourself. It's not as deep as an algebraic problem," Dick said, evidently nettled at being asked to leave. "Well, you know cooking is new to me yet. When I can do it by reflex action I can cook and study recent history at the same time," explained Nell.

Dick flung himself down in his easy chair with the paper for company. They were very quiet at first, and Nell felt her nervousness dropping away from her, and after she had cleared away the meal and stacked the dishes that Dick might have a long evening with Dick. She brought out her work and drew her low sewing chair up near Dick's big cloud.

Nell was listening intently when Dick suddenly exploded with, "For heaven's sake, Nell, tie those shears to you."

"You see," explained Dick, leaning against the wall in the kitchenette, while Nell was preparing dinner, "if the Germans mine the Irish sea, the English—" go out with your friends.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will a switch of natural hair turn gray after making? (2) A boy wishes to introduce a boy and a girl, should he take the girl to the boy? THANK YOU.

(1) Yes, it is washed. (2) The boy should take the other boy to the girl. But at a dance it is perfectly proper for the boy to take the girl to meet her next partner.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is there any harm in letting a strange fellow take you home, when you see he is a fit fellow to associate with? I would never wish to see him again if he were not respectable. DAILY READER.

Never let a strange man take you home.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband is very jealous of me. When I go shopping he is so afraid that I will flirt with some one. If I should meet some of my former gentlemen friends and speak to them, I would have the worst quarrel possible. What shall I do?

ONE YEAR BRIDE. Have a plain talk with your husband and tell him that you do not wish to make him jealous. And be sure that you do not give him cause to be jealous.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of seventeen. I do not go out with boy friends because my parents object. I am going to ask them if I can keep company. What shall I say to them? MARGUERITE.

You are old enough to have boy friends, but not to keep company. Ask your parents if you may have a caller once or twice a week. Tell them that you wish to be certain only boys that they will approve of.

WAR FIELD FAMILIAR TO ROCK COUNTY MAN

William Sarow of Town of Center, Veteran of '70, Saw Service Near Verdun and Chalons.

William Sarow of the town of Center, a veteran of the Franco-German war of 1870, reads the war news of today with more than passing interest because he recalls very vividly his term of service in the German army in its campaigns about Verdun and Chalons, which again figure prominently as the scene of bloody battles between French and Germans. Mr. Sarow was a visitor at the Gazette office on Saturday and voiced his ardent desire for an early peace at the same time referring to his own experiences in the German army.

Mr. Sarow was a member of regiment No. 8 of the Brandenburg Infantry No. 64, of the occupation army which occupied the French territory after the war of 1870. Mr. Sarow's regiment was stationed in the region which is again being drenched in blood. He remembers the country well and spoke of the large vineyards and of one wine cellar so large that railroad cars were run directly into it for loading. Fred Sarow, brother, whose home is at Silver Creek, Neb., was visiting in Berlin when war was declared and experienced considerable difficulty in getting home. He finally reached Rotterdam where he was delayed for twelve days before he could get a ship for America.

Mr. Sarow has many relatives who are now seeing service with the German army. He believes it quite probable that some of them have given their lives.

FRENCH ARCHITECT SAYS CATHEDRAL IS NOT RUINED.

Paris, March 1.—Guillaume Tronchet, chief architect of the government, declares that it will be possible to restore the Cathedral of Rheims. Casts have been long ago taken of nearly all the details of ornamentation that were destroyed, he says, and mathematical precise documents exist from which the jewel of architecture may be reconstructed in every detail.

COAXES HUSBAND TO GIVE UP PLAN TO BE GERMAN SPY

With an answering smile Nell dropped her cheek on his hand. "We must both try to go slow. It's our speeding up all the time that gets our nerves, all on the surface. Don't you think so?" "Yes, dear," he answered, "nothing her cheek with his disengaged hand. We'll get a temporary divorce and rest up. That will be a good time for me to go out to Kansas to see that firm who wrote to me. You can visit at home that week or two."

Yes, he answered, slipping his arm around her. A few days' separation will make us appreciate each other's company more. Don't you think so?"

"Perhaps," she answered doubtfully, "I hate to have you go." He laughed and kissed her before resuming his reading.

"You see," explained Dick, leaning against the wall in the kitchenette, while Nell was preparing dinner, "if the Germans mine the Irish sea, the English—"

Household Hint

REFRESHMENTS FOR PARTIES.

Sponge Sandwich—This is particularly nice for an evening party where only light refreshments are wanted. Place a slice of strawberry ice cream, cut from a brick, between two thin slices of angel or other white cake. Ornament top with whipped cream, sweetened, flavored with maraschino syrup, and pressed through a pastry tube to form a fancy rosette. In the center put a single maraschino cherry.

Substitute for Cream (to be eaten or fruit). Beat one cup sweet milk until boiling. Beat together the whites of two eggs, one tablespoon white sugar and piece of butter, size of hazelnut, now add half cup cold milk mixed with one teaspoon cornstarch. Stir well together until smooth, gradually pour in the cupful of hot milk and cook over hot water until it thickens—it must not boil, and should be of consistency of fresh milk. Use when cold.

Charlotte Russe—Three dozen lady fingers, one quart heavy cream, one tablespoon plain gelatin, one cup pulverized sugar, put one tablespoon gelatin in one-half cup milk, let stand back on stove until melted. Divide cream in four parts to whip, add sugar and gelatin and a teaspoon of vanilla. Line cup with lady fingers, using six halves, cut piece about an inch square for bottom of cup. Fill up cup with cream, put in cool place for a few hours. When ready to serve turn out on plates. This amount will serve twelve persons. This makes a very dainty dessert.

Martha Washington Loaf Cake—One cup half butter and half lard, 1 1/2 cups sugar, three eggs, one pint flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one cup dried stoned cherries, one-half cup milk, one teaspoon vanilla, white light cream, add one egg at a time, beating three minutes after each addition. Sift flour and powder together, add to butter and so forth, with cherries, cream and vanilla extract. Mix smoothly and gently into rather firm batter. Bake in pattern lined cake in forty minutes in moderate, steady oven. Watch carefully. If getting too brown, protect with paper. Frosting for above cake: One-half pound confectionery sugar mixed with a few drops of strawberry extract, mix. This makes it red. When cake is cold, spread this all around.

UP-TO-DATE RECIPES.

Pig in a Blanket (new)—An inexpensive beef roast, serving one meal to four, at a cost of about twenty-eight or thirty cents. Get one pound round steak and five cents' worth frank pork (can use salt pork if preferred). Place beef on breadboard, sprinkle with flour, pound flour in well with wooden potato masher. Flour again and pound in, add a little salt if fresh pork is to be used. Spread over steak a turkey filling, then place right down the center the strip of pork. Roll all tightly together, tying cord around it about every inch, fasten ends of roll in tight with metal skewer. Skating a little rolled roast, cook in oven same as beef roast, adding a little hot water from time to time, when roast can be rolled over. Use covered pan. Takes about hour and a half to cook. A good filling for above: Half loaf stale bread (crumbed), half onion chopped, salt and pepper, several pinches "marjoram" (or other seasoning). Can add bits of butter, although pork is fat and moist enough.

Chicken Pie—One large or two small chickens; cut and stew until meat will slip off bones. Leave out skin and bones. Put meat in baking dish. Take three tablespoons melted butter (if chicken is fat, butter is not needed), three tablespoons flour, pepper, salt, rub all together. To this add three cups warm stock, left from chicken, cook to a smooth sauce and add one cup milk or cream, pour over chicken meat and, set in over till crust is made. Crust—Two cups flour, one teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons melted butter, one egg beaten light, one cup milk. Stir and pour over hot chicken. Bake to a nice brown.

WOULD TAX CHURCHES AND HOSPITALS MORE

Oshkosh Man Wants Better Equalization for Charitable and Private Institutions.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 1.—The taxation of all hospitals, homes and asylums where a fee is charged for the care of the patient is proposed in a bill that has just been reported by the assembly committee on revision to the house. The bill which is co-sponsored by Assemblyman Hart of Oshkosh will be referred to a committee of the legislature for consideration at tonight's meeting.

In explaining the bill Assemblyman Hart said today that many of the hospitals are not taxed because they are said to be charitable institutions. He illustrated this by saying that in the city of Oshkosh there are two hospitals, but a few blocks apart. One he said was a private hospital and the other was not. One paid heavy taxes, he declared, and the other paid none.

Another bill by Assemblyman Hart, which will be sent to a committee of the legislature tonight for consideration, provides that the amount of church land exempt from taxation be reduced from ten acres to one acre. He said that his bill would discourage the churches in being the holders of large tracts of property. Under the terms of his measure where a church had property in excess of one acre it would be taxed.

Assemblyman Hart also offered a bill which will practically result in the agricultural exhibit of every county being made at the state fair. The bill provides that the county fair shall send to the state fair as a county exhibit all agricultural products that won first, second or third prize at the county fair. The county will pay the expense of shipping the exhibits to the state fair and the state fair will pay the expense of re-shipping.

"This measure will result in practically every county having an exhibit at the state fair," said Assemblyman Hart. "The bill provides there shall be an arrangement between the county fairs and the state fair so that all the county fairs are held in advance of the state fair. No person will be allowed premiums and the state will not be required to pay premiums in proportion unless the county sends its agricultural prize winning exhibits to the state fair. The result will be of great educational value. People in the southern part of the state who attend the state fair will readily learn what products can be grown elsewhere in the state."

LARGE ICE CROP PROMISES CHEAPER ICE THIS SUMMER.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 1.—Cheaper ice for Milwaukee is foreshadowed by the fact that the crop was much larger this year than last. The dealers refuse to fix prices at present, however, and state that the schedule will be given out later.

"I would not like to express my views on what the price will be," said John Hoff, Sr., president of the Random Lakes Ice Co. "There is plenty of it and the cost of taking it out has been smaller than in former years."

Hoff said that the early winter in 1914 gave the cutters a month's start over that of 1913.
